Air Force launches uniform website

The Air Force launched a new public website this month to help educate and inform Airmen about the service's dress and appearance standards and policies.

The Air Force Directorate of Service's Uniforms and Recognition Branch created the website in conjunction with the Air Force Personnel Center and several other agencies that features interactive slideshows, uniform regulations, detailed photos and uniform policy updates from the Air Force Uniform Board.

Ruth Ewalt, the Air Force Uniforms and Recognition Branch director, said the new website was developed to be a comprehensive online resource that is available 24 hours a day, seven days a week for Airmen stationed around the world.

"We wanted to create a place where all Airmen can view any uniform combination in detail," Mrs. Ewalt said. "This eliminates confusing rumors about the latest versions of Air Force uniforms."

Airmen also wanted an uncomplicated website that was user friendly and did not require excessive navigation to find information about different combinations of the Air Force uniform. (Air Force Personnel Center Public Affairs)

512th Airlift Wing Public Affairs

This year's 512th Airlift Wing Employer Appreciation Day is set for Oct. 2. Wing leadership encourages reservists to invite their civilian employers to this annual event to showcase what their Air Force Reserve employees do on unit training assembly weekends.

The civilian employers will have the opportunity to meet with wing leadership, tour work areas, learn more about C-5 Galaxy and C-17 Globemaster III planes and gain a broader understanding of the 512th AW mission.

The 512th AW has reservists living in number of different states so civilian employers from Virginia, Washington D.C., Maryland, New Jersey, Philadelphia, New York and Delaware are expected to participate.

Reservists may register themselves and their civilian employer for Employer Day online at <http://www.512aw.afrc.af.mil/shared/media/document/AFD-100615-045.pdf>. Alternatively, they can also e-mail the nomination forms to 512aw.pa@dover.af.mil by the September UTA weekend.
