

Liberty Press Weekly

Aug. 20, 2012, Vol. 4, No. 34

512th Airlift Wing, Dover Air Force Base, Del.

New enlistees continue training

Chief Master Sgt. Chris Ford of the 512th Maintenance Squadron leads members of the Liberty Wing's Development and Training Flight on a tour of the Dover Air Force Base, Del., maintenance complex Saturday. The flight provides new enlistees to the Air Force Reserve with help transitioning from civilian to military life even before they head to Basic Military Training. The program is being replicated throughout the Air Force Reserve Command and requires recruits to participate one weekend each month. (U.S. Air Force photo by Chief Master Sgt. Matt Proietti)

Just a click away

Welsh talks leadership with NCOs

Utah F-22 bomb runs 'very successful'

Hotel tax emptions add up to millions

Fisher House benefit nets $650,000

JTF aims to keep drug $ from Taliban

Arizona base to host large solar array

Officer builds historic bomb database

Big Apple hosts Air Force Week '12

NEW YORK CITY -- The premier Air Force ceremonial units, the U.S. Air Force Honor Guard and U.S. Air Force Band, are in New York City as part of Air Force Week 2012 with several performances and concerts scheduled this week.

Two of the USAF Band's ensembles - the rock band, Max Impact, and The Ceremonial Brass - along with the USAF Honor Guard's Drill Team will perform at select locations throughout the city showcasing America's Airmen and their amazing capabilities to many Americans who do not have day-to-day contact with the Air Force.

Air Force Week is a program endorsed by the chief of staff of the Air Force. It provides the opportunity to show and tell civic leaders and the general American public what the Air Force does, while demonstrating its gratitude to the communities which support the Air Force by engaging in events that help give back to the community.

For up-to-date event information on Air Force Week, check out the Air Force Week website, www.airforceweek.af.mil, visit the Facebook page at www.facebook.com/AirForceNYC or follow Air Force Week @AirForceNYC and #AFWeek on Twitter.